

when it's less urgent than 999

NHS 111 Number

You may have seen some publicity about a new and easy to remember telephone number for patients: 111. This is the telephone number to use when it's less urgent than 999.

To start with, the NHS in Derbyshire is making the number available to people in telephone code areas 01246, 01629, 01773, 01298, 01335, 01663 and 01433 via a landline or mobile. All calls to 111 will be free.

This means that, if you phone from a different code, you may not be able to access 111 yet, even if your GP surgery has one of the above codes and is publicising the number.

The service will, however, be available across the rest of Derbyshire by late summer 2012.